LoxBerry extends your Loxone Smart Home by many interesting and useful features, which can not be provided by the Loxone system itself. These features are realized using LoxBerry plugins, which can be installed later on.

The basic system of LoxBerry is free of charge and is maintained by volunteers in their leisure time. The source code is free and is distributed under the Apache 2.0-License. The LoxBerry arose from an idea in the LoxForum (<https://www.loxforum.com/>).

If you like and use LoxBerry or use it in commercial circumstances, please think about a donation. We, the developer of the LoxBerry, need new Hardware from time to time for testing purposes. For buying the test hardware, we need donations from the community.
